Our Designers

Jens Quistgaard

Jens Quistgaard has the distinction of being the principal founding designer for Dansk. In 1954, his hand-crafted design of the teak-handled Fjord flatware was seen on exhibition in the Danish Kunstnerværk Museum. Fjord became the very first Dansk product, and its success led to the development of many more of Quistgaard's incredible designs in metal, wood, ceramic and glass. His Kobenstyle cookware line quickly became a signature for the brand as the first cookware to use enamel on steel to achieve lighter weight, and the first cookware designed to go on the table.

Many of Quistgaard's original pieces are on exhibition in museums in Italy, Austria, Denmark, Sweden and Finland; as well as the Louvre in Paris, MoMA, The Metropolitan Museum in New York, and the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, DC. An extraordinary craftsman, Quistgaard has worked in silver, tin, stainless steel, enamelware, copper, glass, porcelain, china, and wood.

Niels Refsgaard

Niels Refsgaard has been an integral part of the Dansk story for more than 60 years as a designer, creator, and brand champion. Niels prefers to be called a "simple country potter" and it is his amazing talent and devotion to his craft that shines through in all that he creates. We can't think of a design collaboration between brand and craftsman that has stood the test of time the way the Dansk and Refsgaard marriage has. That longevity has yielded much success along the way, as evidenced by the fact that so many of Niels' dinnerware patterns are still active in the Dansk line today. We like to think of Niels as one of mid-Century Modern's ceramic masters, and as this design theme is enjoying renewed attention in the last several years we have not only re-issued some of Niels' early work, we've commissioned him to develop a new approach to the casual dining experience.

Vivianna Torun Bülow-Hübe

Vivianna Torun Bülow-Hübe, often known simply as Torun, was one of Sweden's most important 20th century silversmiths and a master jeweler. Her designs for Georg Jensen and Dansk received both critical acclaim and commercial success. She is the first female silversmith to have become internationally noted. Some of Vivianna's most notable (and successful) designs for Dansk are Romance, Classique and Torun.

The Essence of Dansk

Soul not Surface

Our products have been developed by craftspeople who are masters of their trade devoted to their craft. We strive to bring their talents to every piece we make.

Creativity not Conformity

Form assigned to function with an extra dash of creative spirit – cookware lids that double as trivets and a bread board with an inset knife that doubles as a handle.

Design not Decoration

Dansk is more about the shapes and forms evolving from mid-Century Modern design and less about surface pattern and decoration.

KOBENSTYLE

Enameled Steel Cookware
DESIGNED BY JENS QUISTGAARD

“ Instead of black and brown, I wanted to add life and sparkle to the kitchen and dining room with bright red, yellow and blue. ”

— Jens Quistgaard

The collection that started a revolution. In 1950, Jens Quistgaard designed a set of cast iron pots for a Danish foundry. These humble pieces garnered international acclaim and became the forerunner of Kobenstyle.

Jens' thoughtful, skillful design led to this lighter weight collection of enamel on steel cookware, making the way for a more casual cooking and serving experience. In the process, it blurred the line between kitchen and dining room.

Featuring iconic mid-century modern design, these pieces are lightweight, easy to clean, safe for all heat sources including induction and the lid doubles as a trivet!

Vandvid

Stoneware

Designed by
NIELS REFSGAARD

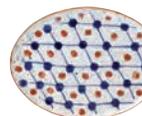

Fifty years after his Generations collection helped to establish Dansk as a design leader in casual dining, Refsgaard strikes again with a fresh take on shape, glaze and pattern. Named for an artisanal restaurant on board a salvaged barge in Copenhagen Harbor, the Vandvid collection charts a new course in casual dinnerware.

Bistro Christianshavn Blue

Porcelain

Designed by
NIELS REFSGAARD

Award winning designer Niels Refsgaard was among the first to create an expansive line of blue and white dinnerware and serveware, helping to break down the barrier between everyday dinnerware and "company china." As casual lifestyles evolved in the 60's and 70's, this design helped Dansk to revolutionize the china and tableware industry in the United States. Rooted in Scandinavian folk art, the classic blue and white designs have become so much more.

Wood Classics

Wood serveware has been an important part of the Dansk story since founding designer Jens Quistgaard's "Staved Teak Collection" was introduced in 1960. The "Two Woods" line (teak and bamboo) and the "Rare Woods" collection (made from different African hardwoods) followed, further establishing Dansk as a design leader in the category. Today's collections feature a variety of woods and shapes with the utmost attention to form and function for which the brand is celebrated.
