LEARN ABOUT CBD

What is CBD?

CBD stands for Cannabidiol. Cannabidiol is a chemical compound from the Cannabis plant. It's a naturally occurring substance that's used in products such as oils, topicals, and edibles to support calmness and relaxation. Unlike its cousin THC (tetrahydrocannabinol), it does not cause intoxication. All products Maha CBD™ carries has less than 0.3% THC, which is the federal legal limit.

How does CBD work?

CBD, or Cannabidiol, works with the cannabinoid system in your body. The cannabinoid system functions to maintain homeostasis, or a healthy balance, between other systems of the body. The cannabinoid system plays significant roles in inflammation, pain processing, sleep cycles, heart health, and many more. Researchers are working to discover more about how CBD possesses the benefits it claims. It is, however, believed that the positive influence of CBD on the cannabinoid system helps improve the balance of different body systems.

Why do people take CBD?

People take CBD for the natural benefits it provides. Some of the many benefits that have been observed are:

- Reduced anxiety, stress, and depression
- Increased level of calmness and relaxation
- Relief from stiffness and joint pains
- Alleviating cancer-related symptoms

- A more restful and healthier sleep cycle
- An overall increase in mental and physical wellbeing

How much CBD should I take?

What to Look for to Find the Best CBD Products for Sale

Like any new health-related products in the market, it is highly essential that you conduct your research in order to discover a company you can trust before purchasing CBD products. That said, here are a few things you should consider to ensure that you are purchasing a safe, effective, and high-quality CBD products.

Our Track Records

With the growing rate of the CBD industry, finding a company with excellent track records could be a bit challenging. Still, one of the important steps to take is to purchase from brands, companies, or retailers with some touch of longevity and proven track records. By working with Maha CBD™, you rest assured that you are purchasing the best quality CBD products produced in USA by a GMP (Good Manufacturing Practices) certified factory that adheres to guidelines set by the FDA.

3rd Party CBD Product Testing

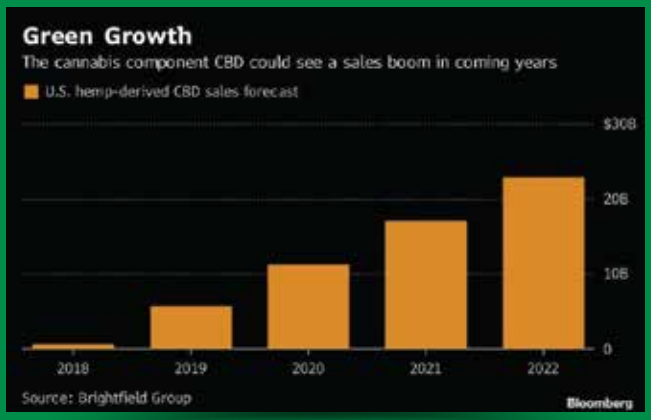
When in search of online CBD stores to purchase CBD products, ensure that the CBD products you are purchasing are tested specifically for its safety, effectiveness, and quality by licensed and certified testing facilities. With that, you won't only relax that your products are safe, but you also see the verification of the level of CBD and other cannabinoids.

At Maha, all our CBD products are subjected to tests by a 3rd party lab and this ensures the safety and quality of our CBD products.

Clear Labelling

One of the vital aspects of finding a reputable CBD company is a clearly labeled and exceptionally designed catalog of products. Whenever you're purchasing a CBD product, you should ensure that the product is clearly marked and no questionable ingredients are used. Apart from that, you should also ensure that the labels display the proper storage and usage information, which will cut across the serving size, expected shelf life, and best storage methods.

At Maha CBD™, all our CBD products are clearly labeled and designed. Apart from that, all our ingredients are organic and 100% high quality. Our labels clearly state all of the ingredients, batch number, and manufacture date to assure quality and freshness of our CBD products.



The Future of CBD Industry in the Coming Years

Similar to iPhone, CBD has remained one of the rare products that has made an explosive-like entrance into the marketplace. One day, majority of the society hasn't heard of CBD. The next day, it seems that CBD products have dominated all advertisements and boom, it's everywhere.

Looking through the market right now, CBD products are not only widespread in the United States, but they are on a very high demand all across the world. This is due to the legalization of industrial hemp in many states of the world.

CBD industry projected to grow to $22 billion by 2022

CBD, or cannabidiol, is unlike THC (tetrahydrocannabinol) because it lacks psychoactive effects. Rather, CBD offers a significant amount of benefits to the human body. Among its most beneficial effects are the reduction of pain, anxiety, and depression, all without any side effects.

It's a little wonder that CBD products are currently in high demand. Research has shown that this demand is set to sky-rocket in the coming years.

Growth, Trends, and Future Projections in the CBD industry

In some G20 countries such as the USA, Canada, and Mexico, the consumption of CBD-infused products is allowed and regulated. The decriminalization and legalization of cannabis in many states of the US and other countries have led to the growth in sales of various CBD products across the world.

Recently, the United States CBD market alone was valued at a whopping $5.7 billion in 2019. It is said that around 7 out of every 100 Americans are using CBD-based products.

According to new reports, 44% of these CBD products consumers use are CBD Oils and Tinctures, while CBD Topicals, CBD Capsules, and CBD-based beverages are used by 26%, 22% and 19% of consumers respectively.

With the change in government policies about CBD products and the apparent benefits they offer, their consumption is expected to continue growing exponentially and at a progressive geometry.

The Brightfield Group projects the United States CBD industry will grow to $5.7 billion in 2019 and $22 billion by 2022.

Bottom Line

The CBD industry is proving to be a worthy investment for manufacturers, distributors, and retailers alike. Those who choose to capitalize on it are set to reap the rewards now and in the future. As with most CBD products, conduct your own market research to see that it is a viable business you should venture into. Yes, and start making your money from the CBD industry while promoting better mental and physical health.

MAP PRICING POLICY

What Does Minimum Advertised Price Mean?

Simply put, the Minimum Advertised Price (MAP) of a product is the lowest net price at which a retailer can advertise the product for sale. This is often confused as the lowest price retailers can sell the product in their store, but it simply means the lowest net price the retailer can advertise the product on any media, including but not limiting to flyers, posters, mailers, coupons, inserts, newspaper, television, radio, signage and online on websites and social media.

For instance, if a CBD company sets a MAP price of $50 for its CBD products, then it is obligatory for all retailers, including brick and mortar stores and even Amazon resellers, to advertise this product for $50 or more but not less.

If otherwise, a reseller decides to advertise this product for a discounted rate of $40, that particular company will be in direct violation of the producing company's MAP agreement.

Why You Need MAP as a CBD Retailer?

Here are a few of the benefits of MAP pricing

- Promotion of Fair Competition across all distribution channels for our products
- Maintaining the value and identity of our brand.
- Prevention of underpricing of our products
- Protection of seller's margins
- Promotion of completion between smaller retailers and larger ones.

Although, MAP pricing helps to protect the seller's margin, price isn't the only point of concern. Another essential factor is the maintenance of the value and identity of brands.

In lieu of this, we expect all retailers purchasing our CBD products to respect our MAP agreement. This implies that our products shouldn't be advertised at prices that are below our MAP prices.

OUR STORY

As a husband to my wife, a son to my parent, and a father to my kids, family will continue to remain one crucial thing in every man's life. I was brought up in a family that stretches its tentacles across many continents including Asia, Europe, and America. One of things we took very important was looking after each other while we grew up. We have been taught to take proper care of each other specifically in times of health or sickness, strength, or pain.

At a trade show in 2018, I stumbled upon a CBD seller and learned about the healing properties of CBD oil. I picked up a bottle, unsure of its effectiveness. I had a little knowledge about it then, I heard my elderly mother complaining of terrible pain in her knees. Remembering the CBD bottle, I gave it to her hoping that it could be of great benefit suppress the pains. To my surprise, she told me her pain began to reduce dramatically. Upon hearing that, I got her more oils and balms, all of which she loved.

The effectiveness of CBD seemed remarkable to me. Having been raised to care for people, I felt it was the right time for me to share the healing properties of CBD oils with others. So, in 2019, I founded Maha CBD™ with the goal of sharing the benefits of CBD with everyone around the world, specifically those who might be in need of it.

It is my hope that those new to CBD can discover its natural benefits, and those familiar to CBD can find a product that perfectly suits them. I encourage everyone to try this nature-made oil for themselves so that they can also benefit from it with the same relief and relaxation I shared with my family.

Although, I learnt that the industrial CBD products are a bit new to the United States but experts researchers have dedicated quality time to seek out the best in CBD tinctures, CBD extracts, CBD creams, CBD oils, and so forth. Through the production of these products at Maha CBD™, we can help a lot of people suffering from pain, anxiety, headaches, depression, skin disorders and other health related issues.

Through our industrial efforts at Maha CBD™, we strongly hope to eliminate the stigma associated with the use of CBD. In doing this, we'll continue to educate and inform every customer and clients that CBD is entirely different from THC which produces psychoactive effects.

If there are any questions, please feel free to get in touch with us through mahacbd@gmail.com.

As always, thank you.

Sincerely,
Farhan Khan
