Great therapeutic benefits

Excellent on skin; a natural and very safe moisturizer, softener and non-irritant lubricator
Can be mixed with other carriers and essential oils
Wonderful balance of saturated fats helps stimulate hair growth

Coconut oil has long been used all over the world for its many therapeutic and other benefits to the skin. It has antiviral and antibacterial properties, a wonderful balance of saturated fats in its natural form and helps stimulate hair growth. Many aromatherapy recipes use coconut oil for the various therapeutic benefits it offers. Fractionated coconut oil is a fraction of the coconut oil from which almost all the long chain triglycerides are removed, thus leaving mainly the medium-chain triglycerides and making it an absolutely saturated oil. This saturation gives it a very long shelf life and greatly increased stability. In addition, fractionating raises the comparative concentration of Capric acid and Caprylic acid, thus giving it more of antioxidant and disinfecting effect.

- Used in many aromatherapy recipes for the various therapeutic benefits it offers
- Leaves skin smooth with no greasy feeling
- Odorless and colorless. Does not stain and easily washes out of clothing and sheets
- Does not aggravate skin or clog pores
